Begin to discuss exclamations, questions, statements and commands with the children. Compound sentences (co-ordination – and, but, or) It was raining outside but we still went out to play. We can play in the garden or we can go to the park. Both clauses have a verb. The two clauses are joined together with the conjunction 'and', 'but' or 'or'.	As –ly, As the rain came down heavily, the children ran for shelter. As the wind screamed wildly, the lost giant lumbered along the path. As the water heats up quickly, a change of state happens called 'evaporation'. The first part of the sentence opens with an action description which starts with the word As... and ends with an adverb. The second part of the sentence is a description of a related, and often consequential, action _ing, _ed. Walking in the bush, she stopped at the sight of a crocodile facing her. Running near the beach, he halted as the ground gave way. Jumping quickly through the air, she landed on her feet before sprinting away. The sentence must begin with a subordinate clause which begins with a verb ending in 'ing', followed by the location of the action. Focus on the use of prepositions in the first part of the sentence (subordinate clause) to explain where the action is happening. Double –ly ending He swam slowly and falteringly. He rode determinedly and swiftly. He laughed loudly and heartily. He tiptoed quietly and carefully. The sentence must end in two adverbs which add detail to	Emotion, comma Desperate, she screamed for help. Terrified, he froze instantly on the spot where he stood. Anxious, they began to realise they were lost. Happily, the astronaut stepped safely from the shuttle. Emotion first followed by the actions that are caused by the emotion. Putting the word first gives more weight to the emotion. When teaching, provide an A-Z list of emotions the children could use. Verb, person Running, Sarah almost tripped over her own feet. Tiptoeing, he tried to sneak out across the landing without waking anybody up. A sentence starts with a verb to give it more importance. The verb is always followed by a comma and then a name or a personal pronoun (he, she, they, it) followed by the rest of the sentence. If, if, if, then. If the alarm had gone off, if the bus had been on time, if the road repairs had been finished, then he might have got to school on time. If I hadn't found the watch, if the alarm hadn't gone off, if I hadn't scared those burglars, then I wouldn't be sitting here today. Summarising a dramatic plot (key plots) at beginning or the end of a story in groups of	Noun, which/who/where, Cakes, which taste fantastic, are not so good for your health. Snakes, which scare me, are not always poisonous. Tom, who was a little shorter than the others, still made it into the football team. - Use commas to embed a clause within a sentence, add information that links with the sentence topic and start the clause with which, who or where. 2 pairs sentences Exhausted and worried, cold and hungry, they didn't know how much further they had to go. Injured and terrified, numb and fearful, he couldn't believe that this was happening to him. Quickly and quietly, silently and carefully, he tiptoed out of the house. - Begins with two pairs of related adjectives. Each pair is: Followed by a comma Separated by and 3 bad – (dash) question? Cold, dark, airlessness – which would kill the spaceman first? Greed, jealousy, hatred – which of these is most evil? 3 negative adjectives followed by a dash and then a question which relates to the three adjectives.	Some; others Some people like football; others hate it. Some days are full of enjoyment; others are long and boring. Some dogs were running around happily; others looked tired. Some; others sentences begin with the word some and have a semi-colon to replace the word but. There is no capital letter after the semi-colon Imagine 3 examples: Imagine a place where the sun always, shines, where wars never happen, where no-one ever dies: in the Andromeda 5 system, there is such a planet. Sentence begins with The word imagine Then describes three parts of something The first two parts are separated by commas The third ends with a colon The more, the more The more it rained, the more depressed he became. The more the crowd cheered, the more he looked forward to the race. The more upset she was, the more she cried. This sentence type is particularly useful when developing a character trait in a story. The first more should be followed by an emotive word and the second more should be followed by a related action.	Tell: show 3 examples; sentences He was feeling relaxed: shoes off; shirt undone; lying on the sofa. The commander was tense: sweat dripping; eyes narrowed; staring out on the battlefield. It was a sleepy town: shops shuttered; cats lazing in the shade; dogs snoozing in the sun. This is a two part sentence. The first part tells the reader a broad-ranging fact/opinion. This is followed by a colon which demonstrates that a list of examples will follow. After the colon the list of 3 examples follows. As this is a phrase list, semi-colons are used between the details rather than commas When; when; when, then sentences. When tumultuous thunder shakes the ground; when blinding lightning tears the sky; when storm clouds block every ray of hopeful light, then you know the Kraken is approaching. When you look at the remains of Tutankhamen; when you examine the damage to his skull; when you look at the motives of his advisors, then it is clear that the young Pharaoh's death should be treated as suspicious. The sentence type ends with a statement e.g. the haunting begins.

			and describe how the verb within the sentence is being carried out	3. The emphasis should be on using the comma after each clause. Each clause always begins with an if or a then and each clause ends with a comma (,) or a full stop (.)
	Compound sentences joined with 'and' Adam sat down on a blanket and he ate a picnic. The boy had a party and he invited his friends. I crawled on the grass and I got dirty knees. Both clauses could be a simple sentence as both clauses have a verb. The two clauses are joined together with the conjunction 'and'	Compound sentences (sub-ordination – when, if, because, that) I ran back to classroom because I had forgotten my coat. The girls started to dance when they heard the music. You can have dessert if you eat all of your dinner. We saw the car that had a scratch on its door. Both clauses have a verb. The two clauses are joined together with the conjunction 'because', 'when', 'if' or 'that'.		With a/an action, more action With a smile, Greg waved goodbye. With a weary wail, Thor launched his final attack. With a deep breath, Neil Armstrong stepped carefully on to the surface of the moon. This two-part sentence starts with a subordinate clause which starts with the phrase 'With a/an...' followed by an action and a comma. The main clause then describes more action which occurs simultaneously.	Name – adjective pair – sentences Little Tim – happy and generous – was always fun to be around. Ben Roberts – weak and nervy – was actually a secret superhero. Glass – fragile and dangerous – must be handled with care. This works on a show and tell basis where the name and details form the main clause (tell). The added information within the dashes shows what the character was like. The two must be linked	'Irony' sentences Our 'luxury' hotel turned out to be a farm building. With dawn breaking, the 'beautiful view' which the brochure described, revealed itself to be a scrap-yard and a rubbish tip. The 'trip of our dreams' was, in fact, our worst nightmare. An irony sentence deliberately overstates how good or bad something is and this is placed in 'inverted commas'. The overstated word is then shown to be false through the remainder of the sentence which reveals the truth.
					O. (I.) She told the little girl not to be so naughty. (Inside, however, she was secretly amused by what she had done.) I was delighted (but I felt scared that something was about to go wrong). Bravely I looked behind me (but I was deeply worried). The first sentence tells the reader a character's outward action and the second reveals their true feelings. If the sentence within the brackets is complete, the full stop goes inside the bracket. If it is not complete, the full stop goes outside.
